Out of Italy comes the wonderful band CONQUEROR, who deliver a fantastic album. The band is playing very melodic Neo-prog a la IQ, yet with a female singer called Simona Rigano. She has a great voice and she can play keys as well. The 8 long songs on their album are really beautiful, of course in Italian tradition (PFM), but because the band has a female singer, they sound different than most other bands in the genre. The material is of a very high level, and I even think this is one of the best Italian Progressive Rock releases I have heard in a long time. Everything sounds really perfect, the keys, the vocals, the guitars and also the whole package of the CD (production/booklet) is impressive, so why spend more words on this CD, because the best thing you can do is checking out this wonderful melodic progrock CD. Especially fans of IQ, LANA LANE, MOSTLY AUTUMN will like this a lot!
